

Kettlebrook Pantomime

I would like to thank all the staff and students who helped make the end of term such fun. Once again, I was impressed with the commitment and dedication shown making this year's pantomime a success. Despite illness, tiredness, dark evenings, cold weather, jangled nerves and building chaos, a small core of talented students attended after school and lunchtime rehearsals every week. I'm sure those of you who were able to attend the performance will agree that we have some very talented young singers and actors here.

Of course, no performance can go on without the back-stage and pre-production support. It was lovely to watch the school come together as a team to produce the program, props, music and the fabulous set.

One of the best things about putting on a whole school show is seeing staff and students working and laughing together. It isn't easy to stand in front of a live audience dressed in a daft costume, speak loudly, remember lines and sing. My thanks also goes to everyone in the audience who kept the cast going with their encouragement.

I look forward to seeing familiar faces (and perhaps a few new ones) in Drama club this term which will be held every Wednesday 2.30-3.15pm
